To said bluce now good to Manzanar

When I first arrived here on that blizzary night of April 2, 1942, my first final impression of Manzanar reminded of an isolated place for prisioners.

insuse and temperary latrine were put up. But then of course, there were such inconveniences as no laundry rooms, thus boiling your water, brought from the pipe faucets and washing in the home. No shouwere or baths, thus, not taking a shower for about three weeks, just sponge baths and imagining as if you weighed a ton. What experiences they were!

You jumped out of the barracks to go outside because of no steps and the tesult is about a half of a pound of sand and rocks in your shoes. If you went out of your own block, you have a terrible time looking for your apartment, because everyone of them looked exactly alike.

Gradually you get acquainted with your neighbors, start planting flowers, vegetables, grass, building steps, shelves, tables and all kinds of miscellaneous items.

I never realized you could borrow so many articles from your neighbors, such as ironboards, washoards, pans, dishes, pins, and oh, such numerous items that will take hours to mention. You certainly are grateful to such friendly people.

Day by day, improvements were made and the population increased steadily, thus building more and more barracks. It was certainly boring to hear nothing but pounding sounds of the hammer here and there. Canteen and postoffice opened, latrines were built, wash-rooms were made and recreational halls were opened.

Now everything is of convenience that you could think of.

course there many, many things that could be done to make this camp armore enjoyable place. Such as the young people are al ways saying there isn't anything to do. Naturally there are, but what they mean is recreational doings. There should be more activities here. Why can't we have a skating rink, or a bowling alley? It may sound impossible, but other camps have done it, so why not Manzanar?

uners, just about the selectator of the real seasons of the selectator of the seasons of the sea on to endaged while to be allowed out to the bequit, not

2 1 1 98 . mm.

a syst par proces of the line of the process of the part of the part of ternicia time looking the real squaders, commission every tot the

Charles and the contract of the second secon

. Cavifornia, in the sandal and the sandal and the sandal and the sandal and sandal and

THE REST PRINTED THE REST OF FOURTH PRINTED IN THE PARTY OF THE PARTY

neighbors, push as Monbourds, named the commit district, time, and oh, such nastrous brome that will now the soults. You continues the of the second of Don wood toward to be above and hanner and make to dead of and too there, danked will be refrice previous I william bearing builty.

1998.38.33