SEVENTH GRADERS

Having embarked on their high school careers, the seventh grade class anticipates their future with eager minds. Their first year at Hunt High School has come to a close, but this first year has opened their eyes to a wider horizon. New ideals were developed, new confidences instilled, and the seed of democratic procedure engendered through practical use. And so with intrepid courage, they will surely meet their coming years with stout hearts.

HONORS

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF HUNT

Student

Real democracy is not hereditary. It is a way of living. Although the home and community have a great deal of influence on the citizen of tomorrow, the school also plays an important roll. The school, through the Student Council, gives us a vehicle through which we can practice the principles of democratic government. The Student Council, based upon student body representation, gives the youth a chance to think out the problems that affect his school life. During the school year, many problems have arisen that have challenged the abilities of the council, but the students have more than shown their ability to solve student-government problems. Accomplishing much, they have provided the year with many colorful events to remember and recall.

GIRLS' CLUB

Under the leadership of Eunice Torii, the Girls' Club has just completed an active and successful school year. It has provided the girls with an opportunity to take part in activities. The school is happy to have the interest of the girls and their support. Working as a unified group, they have governed themselves through a representative board. During the year they have undertaken and completed many events such as a newspaper and an all-girl social, and the remodeling of the social hall. Yes, the Girls' Club has added much to this school year.

BOYS' CLUB

Based upon the democratic form of government, the Boys' Club has given many boys the opportunity to take part in some form of extra-curricular activity. Through either accepting leadership or participating in school activities, the boys obtain valuable experience in learning to work cooperatively with others. Thus the Boys' Club is preparing many for the task of the post-war world of tomorrow. Under the leadership of the elected officers and the advisory board, the Boys' Club this year has devoted much of its time to the improvement of the social hall.

HUNT HI-Y

Usually the development of Christian character has been left to the church. Because such an institution is important in the molding of future citizens, the Hi-Y, a Christian youth organization, has become an active organization of Hunt High School. The organization has a membership of twenty-five boys who seek "to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character." With this purpose in mind, the Hi-Y has rendered many a service throughout the school. Recalling the year's student activities, events such as the Hi-Y dance and their all-school assembly climaxed their social calendar.

HONOR SOCIETY

In order to recognize those students who have attained a high scholastic record, the Honor Society was inaugurated into the student body of Hunt. Since its beginning it has helped to promote throughout the school the desire of self-improvement. Thus far, the Honor Society, having adopted a constitution ratified by all its members, has established itself as a democratic body. Because of its high standard, B plus or better, it had a membership of 17 students. However in the future, it is hoped that many more will meet the scholastic requirements.

If there is any school organization which can be singled out for distinction, then the staff of the Hi-Lites should be given that honor. Burning the midnight oil and battling through priorities and lack of materials, the Hi-Lites' staff has always turned out a commendable paper. Theirs was a thankless job—if

Pen Club

The Pen Club's primary purpose is to stimulate and give recognition to the latent literary talent which may be found in Hunt High School. It accomplishes this purpose very ably by collecting essays, poems, and short stories written by the students and then editing it in a booklet aptly named "The Pen." Last year's edition of the Pen was received very well, and it is the hope of this year's editors that they can live up to that standard.

Debate Club

The purpose of the Debate Club was: "To gain further knowledge about controversial questions and to learn the finer points of debating." Holding this purpose in mind, the Debate Club, with its many potential orators and lawyers contributing their pros and cons on the issues that they chose to discuss, had a successful program for the year.

One of their first topics for discussion was the question of the Nisei draft, coinciding with the army order making the Nisei eligible for the draft.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The able Physical Education staff is headed by Miss Edna Kurtin and Morris Roth. Kiyoshi Hoshide assisted Coach Roth with the boys classes until he relocated. James Akutsu, social hall supervisor, has also assisted with the classes. Tak Akiyama replaced Hoshide in tutoring his classes and also served as baseball coach for the varsity team.

1943-44 PHYSICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

Under the expert generalship of Coach Morris Roth and Instructor Edna Kurtin, the Boys' and Girls' Physical Education program showed that the intramural plan does work when properly handled. Approximately 550 boys and 500 girls participated in the vast intramural program.

Touch football started off the program, followed by the All-American Achievement Contest, basketball, broomball, and individual sports such as ping-pong, push-ups, pull-ups, and shuffleboard. Volleyball, track and, softball were being started to conclude the year's program when the annual went to press. Likewise the girls have competed in soccer, volleyball, softball and other spring sports.

Physical fitness has been stressed equally as much as sportsmanship, and various courses have been carried out in health. Both boys and girls were given health examinations in coordination with the nation-wide, "Vim for Victory" program. Awards have been presented to the winners in most sports, but it wasn't always the winners who had all the glory. Win, lose, or draw, all shared sportsmanship in the true American fashion, one of the virtues of all true-blooded Americans. As we look to the future, Hunt High can be proud of its students and sportsmen. We can point with pride to the youth of today, the builders of tomorrow. . . .

Intramural Sports All-American Contest

The Hunt High All-American Achievement Contest was held in September, with 468 contestants participating. Out of the midst of these contestants, sophomore Roy Mukai, emerged as champion. He was closely followed by Ray Mitsudo, runner-up, and Lane Fujikado and Tak Hiyama, who were tied for third place.

Punting 51 yards, Sho Sakakibara outkicked all others for punting honors. Tak Hiyama's 55 yard pass easily gave him championship in this event. Frank Muramatsu's 52 yard place-kick was the longest kick in that field. Three competitors, Ed Tanaka, Sub Takeuchi, and Ray Mitsudo were tied for drop-kicking honors with 45 yard kicks.

WOLVERINE SIX-MAN FOOTBALL

Presenting the pride of the gridsters of Hunt High, the Wolverine Six-Man Football Tournament started in earnest with eight teams entered in the "A" League and five teams in the "B" League. Shozo Komorita's powerful "Highballs" copped the "A" championship and the colorful

"Trojans," captained by Roy Seko took the "B" title.

The lack of sufficient equipment prevented Hunt High from organizing a varsity team to compete with outsiders, but enthusiastic gridsters organized sandlot tackle squads. Many exciting tussles were played by these pick-up teams.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Although hindered by bad weather conditions, the Hunt High Foul-shooting contest was by no means unsuccessful. Potting 20 points each, Tak Hiyama and George Natsuhara, tied for honors as "gift shot artists." James Watanabe with 18 points finished second.

The inter-class, inter-period basketball tournament held during December was captured by the favored seventh period juniors. In the finals, Tak Hiyama's juniors routed Ed Tanaka's seniors. Leading the victors were Tak Hiyama and Kiyoshi Kono. In all, 40 teams were entered in this successful tournament, and 43 games were played to determine the winner.

HUNT CROSS-COUNTRY MARATHON

Braving one of Minidoka's windiest days, 191 contestants entered the first cross-country run, sponsored by the Wolverine Club with the assistance of the Physical Education department.

Goro Todo, running the mile and a half course in the remarkable time of nine minutes and five seconds, clinched first place in the Midget division, while Jack Hirai and Teddie Yamada, finished second and third respectively.

In the Junior division, Ray Mitsudo, Harry Nagaoka, and Roy Uenishi were the first three winners in that order. The time for the first place winner was 13 minutes and 41 seconds over the two mile course.

Climaxing the event, Jim Kuga cut the tape in 14 minutes and 16 seconds to sweep the senior championship. Jack Murakami and Ted Iida finished closely behind to take second and third places over the same two mile course.

Wolverines

The Hunt High Wolverines, coached by Tak Akiyama and Coach Morris Roth in baseball and track, respectively, had one of the strongest teams in the Magic Valley. In their only two meets, Hunt defeated the Jerome High and Eden High track squads.

George Shimizu was the ace moundsman for the Wolverines, with Tak Hiyama, Sho Sakakibara, Ray Mitsudo and Renso Enkoji also seeing mound duty. Doing most of the catching for the Wolverines were Ted Okita and Makoto Yaguchi.

In their first eight tilts, the Wolverines defeated Eden High once, Jerome High twice, the All-Stars (a team of former players playing for the semi-pro team) three times, and suffered their only defeat to the All-Stars. The Wolverines also trounced the Twin Falls aggregation once.

baseball and also received his letter in track. He was, in addition a member of the Wolverine basketball quintet and foul-shooting team.

Ray Mitsudo and Roy Mukai, both sophomores, took second and third places respectively. All in all, the year's athletic program was well-rounded and highly successful and the year's work was climaxed with intramural letters being awarded to the first fifteen place winners.

Winter Mardi Gras

Open for a two night stand on January 21 and 22, the gigantic Winter Mardi Gras carnival was held to help finance the school yearbook, MEMOIRS. The high school was converted into an atmosphere of a carnival and presented such attractions as Chickie Ishihara and Toshi Iwasaki's "Showboat," Tony Koura and his game concessions; and Kinuye Jitodai with her menu of carnival favorites. Highlighting this great event was the presentation of Miss Mardi Gras of 1944, Chiyoko "Onions" Morooka and her six attendants by Calvin Ninomiya, A.S.H. prexy at the mammoth two-dining hall dance which was held under the supervision of Jeanne Kanno and Hiroshi Yoneyama. Fatigued and at the hospital's doorsteps, none-the-less, Chairman Bunzo Nakagawa stated, "The carnival was a huge success."

Senior Day

Going one step further in climaxing their high school year and entering into the channel of their future life, the senior class of 1944 held their traditional Senior Day on April 14, 1944. Proving themselves as capable students--willing, able, and determined, the senior cabinet consisting of Shuzo Kato, Eugene Uyeki, Jane Kawamoto and Takashi Enkoji took over the administration of the school, and the senior core class students took the responsibility of tutoring the various classes. Revealing that they are the "upperclassmen," the senior girls were identified with white blouses and skirts and boys with white skirts and ties. The senior students by majority vote selected Katherine Matsuda and Chiyoko Morooka as the ideal senior girls, and John Matsushima and Shuzo Kato as the ideal senior boys. This huge event for the upperclassmen, under the leadership of Jack Murakami, was concluded with a matinee dance in the social hall.

May Day Festival

"Step right up and cast your eyes on the greatest show of them all—you haven't seen a thing until you've seen the "Old Black Magic" . . . "Bingo" . . . "Benny Bombs Berlin—ala Kuroki style" . . . with such flamboyant phrases urging school students and outsiders alike, the gala May Day festivities were rightly climaxed by the enjoyable "May Day Madcap." With all the school organizations pitching in to build up the annual fund, the carnival under the supervision of Peggy Miyake and Eugene Uyeki was proclaimed as one of the biggest events in the school's history.

While the evening's merry-making was set in a fast carnival atmosphere, the morning and afternoon programs were equally enjoyable. In an outdoor coronation, Miss Katherine Matsuda, popular senior, was crowned "May Queen of 1944" by T/Sgt. Ben Kuroki, famed nisei war hero. Elected together with Miss Matsuda to reign over the entire May Day festival, which is an annual event here at Hunt high, was genial king, Katsumi Okamoto. They were attended by princesses Reyko Miura and Lilly Kobayashi and princes Renso Enkoji and Charles Kinoshita. Talent shows, pantomines, and a baseball game were included in the afternoon's schedule of attractions.

In summing up all the day's festivities, teachers, sponsors, and students alike, whole-heartedly agreed that "May Day . . . 1944" was a "success" in the word's fullest meaning.

EPILOGUE

The sun is going down now in Minidoka . . . receding slowly into the far western horizon, casting its long, weak rays into the rapidly enveloping evening. The shadows falling from the symbolic watch-tower lengthens itself until the cognizance of where the shadows end and where the dusk begins is undeterminable. And so it is with our pictorial review into the educational processes which governs the molding of the modern pioneers of today . . . it too has come to its end.

But the dawn which that dusk must bring, will bring in its wake a new period which will be the era of the modern pioneers. It will be up to them—to us—to abolish forever the holocaust of totalitarianism which threatens to destroy the very bulwarks of civilization today. And it shall be done . . . young citizens the world over have willed it so. And when at long last it is over, then the world citizens of tomorrow, who are in actuality the modern pioneers of today, will then be able to battle humanity's real enemies—social maladies.

Yes . . . there will be . . . one dawn, one day—which will usher in the "era of modern pioneering" and with it, the resolute spirit and will to achieve eternal peace.

FINAL WORDS

We have reached the crest of the hill and a new horizon of modern pioneering lies before us, but it isn't without regret that we mark "finis" to the chapter of our life here at Hunt High School for the year of 1943-44. Before we do mark the end of this pictorial chronicle, however, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to the many who made the 1944 edition of the Hunt MEMOIRS possible.

Our first thanks go to our adviser, Mr. Robert W. Coombs, for his capable and understanding help. For the job of photography, our deepest thanks to Mr. Charles W. Frost. Also not to be forgotten are our two engravers, the Artcraft Engraving and Electro-typing Company of Seattle, Washington, and Mr. Joseph Donahue of the Twin Falls Times-News Engraving Department. We are also grateful to our cover manufacturers, the Babcock Cover Company of Glendale, California. Our entire composition and presswork was done by the Jerome Northside News Company, headed by Mr. Berwyn Burke. For the excellent job of binding, we thank the Fred York Printing Company of Boise, Idaho. Thanks for our senior pictures should go to the Album Studios of Twin Falls, Idaho.

Also deserving of our most sincerest thanks are our two-man art staff of Heidi Fujii and George Matsui. Theirs was the job of conveying and carrying out of our theme in drawing.

And so, the 1944 MEMOIRS has come to its close, but we shall not soon forget the experiences gained from our school year here at Hunt. For actually, we are rich—rich from the experiences gained during the past year—a richness of heart that was our dividend for the conscientious investment of effort that came from all of us. And as we go on—we shall meet with fervent hope and a kind of rekindled faith, the job of modern pioneering which the new dawn brings.

... and may the light from its ever-flaming torch, which symbolizes what we are defending today—life, liberty and decency, shine on the world of the modern pioneer tomorrow.
