made by the late President Kennedy, and I co-authored his proposals. Until this year, the House of Representatives failed to act, generally, in this field.

Last week I said in the Senate that I intended to vote for the pending legislation, which is grounded in the traditional American principles of fair play. The bill, as it emerges from the Senate Judiciary Committee, is a good bill, a fair bill, and a superior bill, from the standpoint of our country, to the bill which has recently passed the House.

Mr. President, I have the honor to represent in part the State of California, the most populous State in the Union. We are a heterogeneous State. Among our 19 million Americans living in California, none are more highly respected among my fellow citizens than Americans of Japanese extraction.

From the Frying Pan

New York City

OF MANY MOODS-At its most pleasant, New York City is a delightful and exciting place, vibrant with vitality, made magnificent by the towering product of architects' imagination and builders' skill. But in its foul moods, New York is a miserable hellhole, festering, fussing, uncomfortable and uncompromising.

New York was in one of its more miserable moods last week when I dropped in for two and a half hurried days. It started with a half-hour delay over Kennedy International Airport when congestion of airspace delayed our landing. It continued with a 90-minute ride into town, crawling through traffic all the way, that caused me to miss an appointment.

The hotel had my reservation, all right, but it took another 20 minutes to find a bellboy to escort me here. It seems there's some kind of regulation which prohibits guests from finding their onw rooms to save time and inevitable tip for often surly and usually substandard service.

The city was suffering through one of its hot and sultry spells with both temperature and humidity in the high eighties. Unusual, the residents said, but it was more reminiscent of the Mekong Delta than Manhattan. In Saigon, the rooms at the Caravelle Hotel are air-conditioned. This plush Manhattan hostelry of proud name and reputation wasn't and not just because of the water shortage. These wasn't much sleep that night.

Next morning in the coffee shop I sat next to a customer who was quarreling openly with the waitress. The service was so indifferent, I found myself on the customer's side without ever finding out what the trouble was about.

Waiting interminably for my coffee, I wondered what made New Yorkers in one of their less attractive periods even look different from people back home. And then it occurred to me. They don't smile. You can hardly blame them. What's there to smile about?

OLD FRIENDS-New Yorkers seen in the nameless, faceless mass may have lost the ability to smile, but as individuals they can still laugh and display happy emotion, especially when they meet old friends. Or perhaps it is that when they meet old friends, they forget for a while that they are now New Yorkers, and remember once again the cool and pleasant places of long ago which were abandoned for the glamour and excitement and opportunity of Manhattan.

On the one evening I had free, Tooru Kanazawa joined me for a seafood dinner while we reminisced about the days when he was my boss at Jimmie Sakamoto's Courier back in Seattle. Other than the fact that Tooru abandoned claim to the title when he quit newspapering, he would deserve to be called dean of Nisei newspapermen.

After a while we went up to see Tura Nakamura, partner at Takeda's, one of Manhattan's several new Japanese restaurants. Nakamura is another pre-war Seattleite who is remembered among other things as the smoothly bi-lingual announcer on the radio programs with which Jimmie Sakamoto tried to keep the Courier's deficit within reasonable bounds. Takeda's, like the other Japanese restaurants, is riding the crest of interest in Japanese foods. Nakamura said it seemed some 10 or 15 Japanese restaurants had been opened in New York within the last year or so, but later when I checked the Manhattan telephone directory, there were only 14 or 15 listed in the classified pages. Maybe the competition just made it seem there were so many new places.

Both Nakamura and Kanazawa, long-time Seattleites, have found their niches in New York. They complain about the congestion and the climate and the cost of living and a lot of other things, but they like it where they are. The test is in whether they would move to another city, and neither of them has any thought of pulling stakes. As I was saying, at its best New York can be a delightful and exciting place. Japanese cultural show at Buddhist church set ANAHEIM-The Orange County Buddhist Church, 909 S. Dale, stages its first Japanese cultural exhibit Oct. 9-10, 1-8 p.m. for the general public.

A rare collection of Hiroshige prints and bonsai plants, flower arrangements by Mme, Kamimura and students, a doll display supervised by Mrs. Sawada and demonstrations in judo and kempo are to be featured.

Employment policy asked

SAN FRANCISCO - Community service organizations of Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties have asked the Bay Area Rapid Transit to announce their employment policy with respect to minorities, the San Francisco JACL reported this past week. No reply was available at the time the JACL board met Sept. Los Angeles 18 - RE 1-7261 according to chapter president Eddie Moriguchi.

The voice of JACL in Washington, D.C., our Washington Representative. Actually his real name is Mike Masaoka.

In the past couple of weeks Mas Satow and Harry Honda have referred to aspects of the Washington visit as regards to dignitaries and sights, therefore I'll pass up my comments. I did get to meet some Washingtonians like Carol Hasegawa who "speaks frankly" in her PC column. There were formal opportunities to meet with the only Jr. JACL chapter in the EDC. One was in Philadelphia, two at their youth meeting, and three at a general meeting. With such leaders as President Wayne Yoshino and active Norm Ish moto, things are shaping up for this group.

Mrs. Alice Endo, EDC Youth Commissioner, is from that chapter and word is she will be stimulating EDC to become more active in the youth camp. Under Kaz Horita, re-elected EDC chairman, EDC is set to move.

HOMEWARD BOUND (The last leg)

HOSPITALIZATION PLAN

ANAHEIM-It appears that an outstanding speaker, an informal atmosphere and good food are ingredients for a successful affair, judging from the 162 in attendance at the Orange County JACL potluck dinner meeting held Sept. 18 at the new Orange County Buddhist Church hall.

The dinner was both copious and tasty as many unhesitatingly rose for second and third helpings. By the time the program started, there was very little left, according to chairman Min Nitta. # NOW! JAL FLIES MORE JETS TO TOKYO VIA HONOLULU, THAN ANY OTHER AIRLINE

Three more jets to Tokyo boost JAL's transPacific flights to seventeen a week. Now you can enjoy the extra pleasures of flying Japan Air Lines-with extra flexibility in planning stopovers and connections.

And the moment

you step aboard your JAL Jet Courier, you are "in Japan" where JAL's gracious kimonoclad hostesses delight in making you feel like someone very special - as indeed you are on Japan Air Lines.

CHOOSE FROM 17 JETS A WEEK TO TOKYO - From San Francisco: Sunday, Wednesday, and Friday morning at 0930 (Economy class only); and every afternoon at 1400 . From Los Angeles: every morning at 1030. Stop over in Honolulu to visit friends and relatives at no extra fare. See your travel agent.
