DIGNITY FOR ALL

The California Probation, Parole, and Correctional Association is an old and respected organization of practitioners in the field of treatment and rehabilitation of offenders. Although once active in the group I have, of late. been only a card holding member.

I was mildly surprised recently when several "controversial" resolutions were submitted to the membership for approval. These, briefly, were (1) favoring the abolition of Capital Punishment, (2) advocating open housing, (3) opposition to any further reduction in State services directly related to the very troubled, poor, ill and disadvantaged of California. Although all these passed by large margins, only the stand against cutbacks in State service, achieved the required twothirds majority.

A conservative opinion might question what relevance open housing and cutbacks in State service have to do with the CPPCA. At least capital punishment, as part of the system of criminal justice, is relevant to a group like this. Yet, it is a extremely controversial issue, so why take a stand on it?

I was further struck by the opinions of the President, as expressed in the current organ of the CPPCA ". . . I am referring to our professional, through this 3100-person Ascontacts to those issues of the day. We can no longer isolate, insulate, or duck these issues on the basis of irrelevance to the work of our Association. Any issue related to the digniour program."

As if by design, this move by the leadership of the CP-PCA parallels a major JACL concern of today. In the May 10 issue of the PC, our National Legislative Chairman Harold Gordon expresses his views under the title "Time to Update Fundamental Policy." Although it seems ridiculous for us to be struggling still on a level of "updating policy," when the times cry out for action, such seems the extent of discrimination necessary. I recall that the admonition that JACL stick to America has been reduced issues "directly affecting greatly and that overt dis-Japanese Americans", and all criminatory acts against us the implications that such a are becoming less and less philosophy communicates has, frequent, we are still not in more than once, been used to a position to claim that we

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS IN MEXICO

In view of the forthcoming Olympic Games in Mexico City this summer, the Japanese Casualty Association felt that they would like to inform the general public with respect to insurance requirements in Mexico.

Though automobile insurance is not compulsory in Mexico, motorists should be aware that in the event of an accident they may be jailed and their car impounded, unless proof of acceptable insurance is furnished. The preferred way to obtain acceptable coverage is to purchase a Mexican Policy, from a company licensed to write insurance in Mexico, for the period of time the tourist expects to be in Mexico. This can be done at the border, or by making arrangements in advance through your agent, or broker.

It should be clearly understood that policies issued in the U.S.A. and which may also provide coverage in Mexico, are NOT recognized as ACCEPTABLE by Mexican authorities even though coverage is intended and provided and the policyholder, in the event of an accident in Mexico, may still be jailed and his car impounded.

IMMIGRANT HERITAGES

Over the Memorial Day weekend in Los Angeles, the National JACL Planning Commission will formulate recommendations for consideration by the delegates at the National Convention in San Jose. This is the blue-ribbon committee of JACL leadership assigned to discuss organizational matters and policies at long range.

How "long range" the Planning Commission intends to go remains to be seen-but where JACL as an organization will be in another 20 years deserves speculation.

This past week we found a sober analysis of the immigrant heritages in America, how fast they are that we are "safe," and because fading and the concluding thought that pluralism as a characteristic of American culture will disappear by any racial violence we feel eventually.

Prof. Thomas F. Magner of Slavic Languages at of Human Relations. These are signs that the immigrant heritages are fading fastnot because they are inferior to American culture, but simply because they are irrelevant.
