NOTEBOOK HACKS

IF YOU FIND YOURSELF NOT USING YOUR EXPENSIVE CUTE NOTEBOOK AS MUCH AS YOU'D LIKE:

- Plug your phone in anywhere except next to your bed. Get an alarm clock your phone shouldn't be in your bedroom.
- Clean your house. THIS WORKS BEST ON WEEKENDS WHEN PEOPLE SHOULDN'T BE ASKING YOU ANYWAY.
- Now you're untouchable (in reachable) Any Bored and in your house to overtake yourself is A PENCIL & A NOTEBOOK

- You find yourself writing down
 - Tweets
 - Things to google
 - People's phone numbers
 - Video ident about notebooking
- And you'll find yourself
- looking for somewhere to sit And ultimately sitting in the sunshine because
 - ☀ Notebooks work in bright light
 - ☀ ITS Tough to stand & write

I find myself getting bored and using computers all the time. It's too hard to think for faster easy to distract myself from thinking my quiet moments of repose are filled with youtube videos, podcasts, or frustration at how i've already consumed an entire youtube's and podcasts. I should be writing, or letting my mind breathe By hearing the neighbor with my re mind pushing through the tree oh shit I should be logging this

I Should Be Vlogging This

WHAT IS MEDIAWORKS?

Led by faculty Naima Lowe and Julie Russo, students in this full time, year long program have explored a wide range of media modes and communication strategies, from 16mm film to public access television, from silent cinema to video art, from documentary to remix. They have gained fluency in critical and creative methodologies including close reading and formal analysis; cultural, historical, and technological studies of commercial and alternative media production; and feminist, critical race, decolonial, and queer perspectives on representation and power. The independent video projects you see tonight, produced in just ten weeks during spring quarter, represent the culmination of their work this year. Although each student made an individual piece, they have collaborated closely and engaged in an intensive peer critique process, and this screening speaks to their collective accomplishment as well.

Mediaworks faculty and students would like to extend our deepest thanks to the Media Services and COM Building staff and the student Media Interns for their knowledgeable and generous support of our work throughout the year: Mélanie Valera, Instructional Media Coordinator // Lin Crowley, Media Loan Operations Manager // Aaron Kruse, Multimedia Lab Manager // Dave Cramton, Video Producer // Kathryn Ford, Classroom Support Media Technician // Ben Hargett, Audio/Media Producer // Peter Randlette, Head of Electronic Media // Shannon Stewart, Performing and Media Arts Manager // Karen Johnson, Communications Building Coordinator // Matt Lawrence, Technical Director // Monique Anderson, Costume Shop Supervisor

Pull date: _____

Even with windows open and water available the inside of a vehicle on an 80 degree day can rise over 100 degrees within minutes. Animals become stressed very quickly.

KAOS would like to remind residents to keep their animals at home, plan their trips carefully when animals are in vehicles and do not make stops that leave animals in the vehicles. Failure to provide an animal with necessary shelter, rest, sanitation, space, or medical attention resulting in the unnecessary suffering of an animal is a crime!

If you see an animal in stress in a vehicle, please call 911 immediately.
