I Am a little worked up. I read an article in the NY Times about Kites but that characterised the film for us were quite true of the 1st generation immigrant characters and as experience in the film of microaggressions & (minor? subtle?) Prejudice. Being white as an example of "one of the good ones" etc.

The Reviewer noted that in her fewer several people laughed, & she felt that her own experience (which mirrored that of many) was being played for a joke. I did not, in my viewing of the film think her life was being played for laughs! The threat of her mother's depression felt really real to me & added a weight & truth to a story largely of rich details.
~~It is not~~ if someone laughed in the reviewer's theatre - Those are bad people! or possibly empathizing with the character, & horrified. I have laughed for that reason before. Another thing a really cool shot, or I'm horrified.
laughter is a motorious expression, & a cry of one.

This article made me mad because, though well written & I admit the treatment of many's character is handled.
I want this may scare off producers from filming movies whose Portos ~~at anything~~ are not 100%. In her review she referenced two other films, Paragon (?) films.

This handled the immigrant experience better but those two films are not playing in Owen's theatre or Washington. I want to make a point that producers don't look into things very carefully or have degrees from everyone in empathy & when a racist positive politicalizing in a picture for the people is listed as a negative they want to know why. But for my go
"Keep politics out of films"
But the point I keep coming back to is that it's nice for you, Big City ~~but we will~~ ~~that~~ that for us to see a different film, but here in Big City #15 ~~we~~ we take a good film when we can.

For the whole time it

This speaks to Desprez as a motive.

When I return from lunch my sweater, whose location I've been monitoring since he attempts on it, Johns, etc. is no longer on the grey trench on the drafting table. When I mentioned it Sasha & Bryan said "Did you find your sweater" & then all three dashed back & dived when we left for Ramen & then Rebecca beamed. I was at someone's.
Sasha had said "was it occurred to you that it may be unretrievable" which says

Bryan said "If this is really better than we can find it. It'll turn up." Sasha chimed in as she dashed

Your Answers Are Confidential

The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to protect your information (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify you or your household. We are conducting the 2020 Census under the authority of Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141, 193 and 221. By law, the Census Bureau can only use your responses to produce statistics. Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data.

Title 13 of the U.S. Code protects the confidentiality of all your information. Violating the confidentiality of a respondent is a federal crime with serious penalties, including a federal prison sentence of up to five years, a fine of up to $250,000, or both. Only authorized individuals have access to the stored data, and the information you provide to the Census Bureau may only be used by a restricted number of authorized individuals who are sworn for life to protect the confidentiality of your individual responses. Your answers cannot be used against you by any government agency or court.

For more information about how we protect your information, please visit our Web site at census.gov and click on "Data Protection and Privacy Policy" at the bottom of the home page. This page also includes information about the collection, storage, and use of these records. Click on "System of Records Notices (SORN)" and look for Privacy Act System of Records Notice COMMERCE/CENSUS-5, Decennial Census Program.

Thank you for your cooperation. The Census Bureau appreciates your help.

You are required by law to respond to the 2020 Census (Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141 and 193). This collection of information has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).
